

ALUMNI - LIVING THE ARRUPE STORY

Paul Muthuri, a Kenyan entrepreneur and real estate agent, reflects on his transformative journey from studying BA Philosophy at Arrupe to navigating a diverse career in hospitality and business. Originally discerning a path to the priesthood, Paul's transition into the secular professional world was guided by the Jesuit ideal of the Magis the constant pursuit of the greater good.

Paul Muthuri
BA (Hons) in Philosophy, 2007

He credits Arrupe with instilling a "man for others" mindset, using the critical thinking skills gained through philosophy to lead with purpose and integrity. Today, Paul balances business leadership with community service and family life, encouraging current students to cultivate a strong value system, remain adaptable to global trends, and find meaning through service and faith.

Chipo Mujere, a dedicated educator based in Kariba, Zimbabwe, demonstrates the practical application of a BA in Philosophy within the primary education sector.

By integrating her philosophical training into the national curriculum, she employs a unique story-based teaching method that fosters critical thinking, digital literacy, and curiosity in young learners.

Despite the challenges of the teaching profession, Chipo views her work as a vital vocation for shaping future generations. She credits AJU's holistic academic and spiritual environment for her development as a leader and encourages current students to embrace the full "Arrupe experience" to become transformative figures in society.

Chipo Mujere
BA (Hons) in Philosophy, 2016

From entrepreneurship and education to leadership and community development, graduates embody the Jesuit ideal of being "men and women for others." Their journeys reflect the transformative power of an Arrupe education grounded in critical thinking, ethical leadership, and a commitment to service.